

Teca

Design by Alfredo Häberli

Alfredo Häberli of Zürich designed Teca for Quodes.

The Teca wardrobe system consists of three basic modules and a base that allows customers to assemble the cabinet according to their own taste.

The modules (wardrobe and drawer units) stand on a graphic metal carriage and seem to float. The configuration of doors and drawers is eye-catching and the dimensions are subtle. The doors open over a rail and fold out like a book. And like the drawers, the doors are bevelled over their entire length, removing the need for handles and reinforcing the muted character of the Teca.

In addition, Häberli created a sculptural and innovative Bedside Table, which is also a dress boy.
